

Can you help shape the future of libraries for young children?

Libraries Rising and BookTrust are looking for parents and carers of children aged 0–5 to take part in a short interview about their experiences of the library.

Whether you borrow books, attend Bounce and Rhyme sessions, or use the library in other ways, we'd love to hear about your experiences. You don't need to be a regular library user to take part, we're keen to hear from families who use the library a lot, a little, or anything in between.

What's involved?

- 45-minute talk with a BookTrust researcher online or by phone
- A £40 thank you voucher for taking part
